

Auckland Seabirds: Conservation, Restoration and Research

Centre for Biodiversity and Biosecurity

Friday 16th April 2010 9am-5pm 733.201 Tamaki Campus, University of Auckland

There is increasing interest in the research and restoration of the diverse seabird fauna in the Auckland region.

The Centre for Biodiversity and Biosecurity invites researchers, practitioners, iwi and community groups to a seminar day on seabird conservation, restoration and research.

Speakers from Auckland and around the country will present in three sessions headed by invited speakers:

1. The state of Auckland seabird populations (Graeme Taylor, Department of Conservation)
2. Seabird restoration techniques and initiatives (Colin Miskelly, Department of Conservation)
3. Seabird research outside the Auckland region (Henrik Moller, University of Otago).

Numbers are limited. Please register your attendance by 1 April 2010 with Carola Warner (c.warner@auckland.ac.nz). Morning/afternoon tea and lunch provided.

Programme, abstracts and venue information are now available on CBB website: www.cbb.org.nz/seminars.asp
